* This list does not include the names of priests from religious communities who were deceased at the time an allegation of abuse was reported. The decision not to include the names of deceased clerics is because they were accused after their death and therefore no canonical proceedings were able to take place. This does not mean that the Diocese of Phoenix did not find claims of particular survivors who accused those deceased clerics to be credible or compelling. The Diocese/religious community has provided or offered counseling and other support services to those survivors.
